

FAIR TRIAL RIGHTS PROJECT

Mentoring Program

Three-day training on Fair Trial Rights and Trial Monitoring for selected law students

The Cambodian Center for Human Rights organises mentoring program to increase the knowledge on Fair Trial Rights and Trial Monitoring for newly graduated or graduated law students.

INTERESTED?

- Are you a graduate of Law?
- Or a student studying Law in Year 3 or upward?
- Are you enrolled in a Cambodian university?

WHAT DOES THE PROGRAM INCLUDE?

Monitoring criminal cases at the Phnom Penh Municipal Court/ Court of Appeal

Participation in a mock trial

Opportunities for reflection on information gathered and received

Taking part in group discussions

Exploration of national and international theories

HOW TO APPLY?

There will be two mentoring programs taking place in 2018. If you are interested in participating, please submit your application to CCHR based on the above criteria.

For further information please call: 023 72 69 01 or contact us via email at: info@cchrcambodia.org.

ACHIEVEMENTS FROM 2017

38
Law students from throughout the provinces and Phnom Penh, including 14 women, participated in two CCHR mentoring programs.

100%
of all students said they were satisfied with the program and were interested in its contents.

Students agreed the program increased their knowledge on fair trial rights and trial monitoring.

Students pledged to use and disseminate knowledge gained and requested further mentoring programs.

After the program, students created a Facebook group in order to share updated information related to fair trial rights.

