The Universal Periodic Review (UPR) is a United Nations Human Rights Council mechanism that reviews the human rights records of all Member States. The UPR States under review explain what they have done to fulfill their human rights obligations, and UN Member States give recommendations on how to improve their countries’ human rights situation.

Outcome of Cambodia’s Third UPR Review:

- In January 2019, Cambodia received 160 recommendations from 110 UN Member States.
- On 24 July 2022, Cambodia adopted the National Action Plan to Prevent Violence Against Women 2019–2023 - the Neary Max action plan, which seeks to prevent, respond, and address violence against women and girls.
- Cambodia has adopted policies to improve gender parity and women’s empowerment.
- Cambodia has allocated sufficient human and financial resources to establish at least five one-stop service centres by 2024, to provide support services free of charge to victims of GBV.
- Cambodia has continued to step up measures aimed at promoting women’s rights, including the elimination of all forms of discrimination and violence against women.
- Cambodia has continued its efforts to promote gender equality and eliminate all forms of gender-based violence.
- Cambodia has continued to implement the gender equality policy to ensure gender mainstreaming in all sectors and programs.
- Cambodia has allocated sufficient human and financial resources to establish at least five one-stop service centres by 2024, to provide support services free of charge to victims of GBV.
- Cambodia has continued to implement its gender-related plans and actions at the national and sub-national levels;
- Cambodia has done to uphold human rights and other UN member States give
- Cambodia has continued to implement its gender-related plans and actions at the national and sub-national levels;
- Cambodia has done to uphold human rights and other UN member States give
- Cambodia has continued to implement its gender-related plans and actions at the national and sub-national levels;
- Cambodia has done to uphold human rights and other UN member States give
- Cambodia has continued to implement its gender-related plans and actions at the national and sub-national levels;